LONDON, August 17.—Viscount Wolseley, field marshal and commander-in-chief of the British army, delivered, according to the Daily Mail, the most scathing condemnation of the British army ever heard at Aldershot after witnessing yesterday's maneuvers. He declared that the 30,000 men who participated were utterly unit to send abroad, badily led and badily taught.

Many distinguished officers listened to these remarks, among them Gen. Montgomery Moore, formerly in command in Canada, but now commanding at Aldershot.

Fish in Captivity.

From the New York Sus.

Fish new in captivity in aquariums are more likely to be attacked by fungus than the old ones, which have become in a way seellmated or accustomed to the water in the tanks. This may be of different characteristics than that which they inhabited in nature. If sait, for instance, it may be less saity, and it is impossible to provide water of the tank is kept at a temperature approximating that of the fish: antive waters, but in nature the fish could come to warmer water near the surface and confer water the surface and confer may be conditions that it is impossible to reproduce in small tanks. In many cases it is practically impossible to supply the fish with just the food to which they have been accustomed.

But the hardier ones get used to the water and used to the food and pull through all right and come to be chipper and hearty and to enjoy life as much as fish in captivity can enjoy it. They become so tame that they take food from the hand.
